Bulk email and Other Prohibited email

The Workmen's computer network (which includes, but is not limited to, the technology and applications, which support the email functionality Workmen's provides its officers, employees, independent brokers, and other authorized users) is the private property of Workmen's.

Workmen's prohibits any bulk email transmissions to be sent, or caused to be sent, over the Internet to this Site or our email address unless Workmen's, through one of its officers, has specifically requested or authorized the sending of such bulk email. For purposes of these Terms of Use, the word "bulk" shall mean an email message, or group of identical or similar email messages, sent to more than 20 different Workmen's Sites addresses in any 24-hour period.

Workmen's also prohibits any email transmissions of the following types to be sent, or caused to be sent, over the Internet to the Workmen's Site or email addresses in any 24-hour period unless Workmen's, through one of its officers, has authorized the sending of such email: (1) commercial advertising; (2) informational announcements; (3) political or religious tracts; or (4) solicitations for funds or donations.

Workmen's prohibits any email transmission to be sent, or caused to be sent, over the Internet to any waic.com email addresses if the email is intended to, or appears intended to, harass, embarrass, threaten, defame or impersonate any person, or if the email is pornographic, offensive, indecent, discriminatory or offensive on the basis of sex, color, national origin, race, age, religion, sexual orientation or disability. Workmen's prohibits any email transmission to be sent, or caused to be sent, over the Internet to any waic.com email address that makes use of a forged header or deceptive addressing, or which attempts in any manner to disguise the source of the email.

Workmen's prohibits the harvesting or collection of the email addresses of Workmen's brokers from the Workmen's Site for the purpose of sending bulk email to the Workmen's Site email addresses. Workmen's reserves the right to take all legal and technical steps available, including pursuing civil remedies and criminal prosecution, to prevent bulk or other prohibited email from entering, utilizing or remaining within the Workmen's computer network. Nothing in this policy is intended to grant any right to transmit or send email to, or through, the Workmen's computer network. Workmen's failure to enforce this policy in every instance in which it might have application does not amount to a waiver of Workmen's rights.
